

EURAGRI

EURAGRI is a consortium of the leading European public research and innovation organizations working in the agriculture, food, forestry and marine sectors. It provides a forum and a network for discussion and reflection on strategic research and innovation themes as well as enabling members to learn from each other regarding best practice in the delivery, management and evaluation of research and innovation systems.

EURAGRI Membership

EURAGRI Membership is open to research institutions, universities, funders and ministries.

Contact Us:

Secretary General Owen Carton

Email: owen.carton@gmail.com

Web: <https://www.euragri.org>

Euragri,
Riverdale,
Crossabeg,
Wexford, Ireland
Y35X09

EUropean AGricultural Research Initiative

The European Platform for exchange and debate on research and innovation strategy as its implementation with the agriculture, food forestry and marine sectors.

EURAGRI offers

Reflection

On the strategic direction of agriculture, food, forestry and marine research and innovation to support the decision-making of funders, policy makers and its members.

Networking

The shaping of research and innovation agendas in response to current and anticipated challenges arising from environmental, technological, social and economic factors so as to maximize stakeholder impact.

Inclusion

Of actors and interested parties beyond academia, inviting them to contribute.

EURAGRI facilitates rigorous debate on the challenges facing our agriculture, food, forestry and marine sectors on the responses required within our organizations to deal with these challenges.

Professor Gerry Boyle,
Director Teagasc & President EURAGRI

Members

Activities

Annual EURAGRI Conference

The Annual EURAGRI Conference is hosted in rotation by members in different countries. The conference programme reflects the research and innovation priorities of the host within a European dimensions and beyond.

Workshops

Workshops on burning, specific issues that require in depth debate and often insights from domains outside our field in order to broaden the knowledge base of EURAGRI members.

EURAGRI network

The EURAGRI Network is a contact portal for European research and innovation performing organisations to enable collaboration in areas such as funding and mutual learning in the management of resources to maximize impact.

